PLOWSHARES OR CASH?

What shall we do with these surplus and out of date irises? Has your garden a place for some of them or shall we plow them under? It will be one or the other because we are again reducing our collection. In 1925 we had 900 varieties of irises. Now we have 400 and next year not more than 250. Here are some of the 150 varieties we are discarding this year. Plenty good enough for mass display and cutflowers; also plenty cheap enough.
